

Woodall Foundation Donates Basketballs to the YMCA CHAMPS

A team dribbling race at the basketball clinic.

Adam Carriker and David Biddler served as volunteer referees at the basketball clinic.

On February 10, the Park Cities YMCA held its annual basketball clinic at Bradfield Elementary for the special needs children of its CHAMPS program. The Woodall Foundation gladly donated twenty five basketballs to the event so that each child could have their own. The entire day was a lot of fun. The kids particularly enjoyed dribbling and passing the ball to each other and shooting hoops on the lowered basketball goals with applause and encouragement from the crowd of supporters.

Oscars Party at The Ashton

On Sunday, February 25, the Woodall Foundation joined The Ashton apartment community to host an Academy Awards watching party for its residents. The event was held in the building's state of the art media room. To make things interesting, each guest donated $20 to the Woodall Foundation and filled out a ballot with their predictions on the winners of each category. Those with the most correct guesses won free movie passes compliments of Cinemark and The Magnolia movie theaters. A special thanks goes to Ferre and Paciugo of the West Village, as well as Glaciers for providing the refreshments for the party.

Due to the success of this event, the Woodall Foundation agreed to partner with The Ashton again for a Dallas Mavericks away game watching party. The watch party was held April 1 at Primo's Bar & Grille. Many fans were on hand to cheer for the Mavericks as they played the Phoenix Suns.

Bryan's House Celebrates 20 Years

For the past 20 years, Bryan's House has made a difference in the lives of many children and families throughout the Dallas area. Since 1999, the Woodall Foundation has been a proud supporter of this wonderful organization.

On Tuesday, March 27, Bryan's House celebrated its anniversary by expanding its mission to include not only those impacted with HIV and AIDS but also other medically fragile children and their families who are in need of their services. In addition to this milestone, Bryan's House also recognized Martin Woodall and the Woodall Foundation for being one of its major donors at the rededication ceremony.

Woodall Foundation's Autograph Memorabilia

The Woodall Foundation has added to its inventory of autographed sports memorabilia. These items include signed team basketballs and authentic game jerseys of the Dallas Mavericks as well as a football and miniature helmet autographed by Dallas Cowboys quarterback, Tony Romo. All items are up for auction with the proceeds going to serve our beneficiaries in building a brighter future for kids. For a complete list of our inventory and to place your bid, email adamcarriker@woodallfoundation.com.
